Customer Relationship Management in Corporate Banking

Using corporate customer relationships to underpin the Customer Value Proposition and to sustainably drive customer loyalty and profitability

OVERVIEW

This course is intended for those interested in how to develop and deliver a Customer Relationship Management based approach for corporate banking customers. It is geared for senior and middle management and is relevant to the fields of strategy and planning, marketing and product development, sales management and business analysis, risk management, and human resources. It serves as an introduction to the key concepts of CRM, as well as including practical detail on their application to improving sales and marketing to corporate banking customers by Relationship Managers, particularly by using real-life examples, case studies and a strong focus on participative group work as well as tutorial instruction.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This course is aimed at staff and management experienced in corporate banking, including Relationship and Product Managers but also bankers from the relevant functions covering strategy and planning, marketing and product development, sales management and business analysis, risk management, and human resources. If you are asking yourself among the following questions, then this course is for you:

- How can I most effectively segment the corporate banking market to ensure we have the right mix of profitable customers?
- How can I make sure that I win the loyalty of my target customers through a differentiated Customer Value Proposition?
- How can I better manage my team and my customers to encourage cross-sales and sales pipeline management?
- How can I develop a dialogue with customers which focuses on more than simply pricing?
- How can I ensure that our operating model reinforces a consistently positive customer experience?
- How can we use research and data in building a competitive advantage in customer understanding?
- How can we use CRM technology to improve salesforce and customer management?

OUTLINE

OBJECTIVES

Participants in this course will come away with:

- A familiarity with the high-level concepts of strategic marketing, and particularly the significance of identifying and embedding a Customer Focus within the strategy
- Practical ideas on how to approach the segmentation of the corporate banking market
- A true understanding of the richness of the potential CVP for corporate customers, and specific ideas on how to enrich and differentiate it
- A good understanding of the key features commonly found in corporate banking CRM technology and software, and how to achieve good results with a limited budget
- A grounding in 'Consultative Sales' techniques – most notably how to avoid fall into the 'price trap' in negotiations with customers

COURSE DELIVERY

- This is a two-day course totaling 14 hours of delivery time.
- It consists of six tutorial modules approximately 1.5 hours each (i.e. a total of 9 hours of instruction).
- A further five (5) hours of the schedule is dedicated to intensive group work underpinned by the case studies, also facilitated by the instructor.
- All hand-outs and instruction will be in English.
- At least one-day of development time will be spent on customizing course materials and case studies for the specific requirements of the course.
- Ideally delegates with have at least three years in corporate banking and/ or exposure to banking marketing/ sales function. Also a good working knowledge of English is required, and some basic familiarity with some key concepts of strategic marketing would be helpful.
- The high-levels of participative group work on case studies and interactivity during tutorials strictly limits numbers to no more than 20 participants.

TRAINING NEEDS ANALYSIS & POST-TRAINING EVALUATION:

To ensure that participants gain maximum benefit from the course, it is our practice to send a detailed questionnaire to all course participants to ensure we fully understand their specific training needs and objectives. The completed questionnaires are analysed by the course instructor who will tailor the course content and style of delivery to the requirements of the participants. Following completion of the course, participants are asked to measure and assess the effectiveness of the training. The results are collated and reviewed, and the analysis shared directly with the relevant client stakeholders.

INSTRUCTOR

Mike Coates
Director,
GBRW Learning

Mike is a director of GBRW Consulting, and a banking professional with more than 16 years' experience. Mike's specialist subjects include strategic management, marketing, and risk management of commercial banks, the management of change, and management information systems. He has worked in over 20 countries through Eastern Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and Asia.

Mike designed this course in response to the challenges banks in emerging markets perceived in effectively embedding a true customer focus internally, and particularly in segmenting the market and developing a differentiated Customer Value Proposition in a crowded corporate banking market.

Mike established his reputation as a banking strategy expert with strategy roles with Lloyds Bank (UK) and numerous successful strategy consulting engagements. This practical expertise is combined with an enthusiastic, friendly and participative style which makes for a lively and memorable experience for delegates.
